ABSTRACT

The directory is intended to provide a comprehensive collection of information regarding those programs offering job training below the baccalaureate degree throughout Tennessee. The information was gathered during the months of December 1973 through April 1974 using questionnaires designed by the U.S. Office of Education for the survey of post secondary schools with occupational programs. Programs included in the directory were offered during the 1972-73 academic year and are organized alphabetically by city with the school's complete name, address, and telephone number listed first. The name of a potential "contact" person is provided for many of the entries. Tuition and fees listed are the approximate total charges to complete the program, and only in-State tuition is given. Other details given, where available, are: admission requirements, program length in months and clock hours, and clock hours per week of required attendance. An index to schools by programs is also provided. (MW)

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

This publication was prepared in conjunction with an effort to provide information to the National Center for Educational Statistics for its Survey of Postsecondary Schools and update of its Directory of Postsecondary Schools with Occupational Programs. The "directory" is intended for use by counselors and students and any other persons interested in locating programs offering job training below the baccalaureate degree.

Several individuals deserve special acknowledgement for their contributions to this publication. Frank McKenzie, Lynn Guess, and Rella Hines assisted in collecting and editing the information; Brenda Breeden was responsible for organization and typing; and Judith Kieffer designed the cover. Also, without the excellent cooperation of the many people representing the colleges, area schools, and other institutions listed, the directory would not have been possible.

INTRODUCTION

The information contained in this publication was gathered during the months of December 1973 through April 1974 using questionnaires which were designed by the United States Office of Education for the Survey of Postsecondary Schools with Occupational Programs. An effort was made to give each school the opportunity to respond, using two follow-up mailings and, in many cases, telephone calls. The entries in this publication are as reported directly from the schools and it should be noted that the data-collecting agency has made no evaluation endorsement, or recommendation of the school by merely including it in the directory. It is our intent, however, to provide a comprehensive collection of information regarding those programs offering job training below the baccalaureate degree throughout the state. It is, in effect, an update of the 1972 Directory of Public and Private Postsecondary Schools with Vocational Education Programs in Tennessee.

The information is organized alphabetically by city with the school's complete name, address, and telephone number listed first. If a person's name was provided, it has been included as a potential "contact" person for anyone desiring further information on the institution. It should be noted that in some instances only partial information has been given for particular schools or institutions due to the fact that the information was not available and/or otherwise not provided by the institution. It is suggested that the reader contact the school directly for more complete information.

Programs included in the directory are those which were offered during the 1972-73 academic year. Therefore, much of the information contained herein is already outdated. It should be noted that tuition and fees listed are the approximate total charges to complete the program and that only in-state tuition has been given.

Many additional schools throughout the state were contacted, but only those listed here took advantage of the opportunity to respond and, in turn, be included in the directory. Private schools are indicated by an asterisk to the left of the school's name. Both additions to the directory and corrections of the information presented are invited and may be made by calling or writing the RCU Information Specialist, 909 Mountcastle St., Knoxville, Tennessee, 37916, telephone (615) 974-3338.
